Minister of Public Safety and Emergency Services

Message from the Minister

In 2024-25, the Ministry of Public Safety and Emergency Services remained focused on building safer, stronger communities across Alberta. Our work spanned the province—from tackling urban and rural crime and strengthening victims services, to preparing for wildfires and floods. Across every initiative, our approach centred on collaboration, innovation and resilience.

Over the past year, our ministry took bold steps to respond to the growing complexity of public safety challenges. To tackle urban crime, we invested more than $18.4 million into Calgary and Edmonton through the Safe Streets Action Plan. This investment is supporting the deployment of 100 additional officers across both cities to strengthen visible enforcement, improve safety and reduce social disorder in high-risk areas.

We also continued to support alternative policing models that reflect local needs and priorities. This included $11.3 million in transition funding to help establish the new Grande Prairie Police Service and $883,200 in ongoing support for Siksika Nation as it develops its own police service. Through an additional $1.27 million in grant funding in 2024-25, we helped 18 communities—including municipalities, First Nations and Metis Settlements—explore alternative policing and community safety models.

Addressing rural crime continues to be a priority. Four new teams of Alberta Sheriffs are helping police disrupt crime in rural areas by gathering intelligence and evidence, and by apprehending wanted fugitives. In 2024, the fugitive apprehension teams executed 2,156 warrants in over 39 municipalities. Over the past year, we also expanded the Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods teams in Edmonton and Calgary, and created two new teams in Red Deer and Lethbridge. Since 2008, the Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods unit has investigated more than 10,000 properties, including drug houses and gang hideouts.

With an additional $10 million investment, we also expanded the RAPID Response program to boost visibility and improve response times in rural communities. At the same time, we strengthened intelligence-led enforcement strategies by committing $55.7 million to the Alberta Law Enforcement Response Teams (ALERT) to disrupt organized crime through a coordinated and collaborative approach.

Recognizing the importance of border and transportation security, we announced $29 million in December 2024 to create and expand the Alberta Sheriffs Interdiction Patrol Team (IPT). This specialized team is tasked with disrupting illegal cross-border activity, particularly along the Alberta-Montana border and major east-west transport routes.

In addition to strengthening frontline enforcement, we also took steps to modernize how Alberta monitors high-risk individuals in the community. Earlier this year, our ministry launched a new electronic monitoring program for adults on bail or serving community-based sentences who are identified by the courts as posing a potential risk. Enabled by recent amendments to the Corrections Act and Corrections Regulation, the program uses ankle bracelet technology to track compliance with court-ordered conditions.

Also, in our correctional system, we expanded therapeutic living units in four facilities and introduced new transitional services in five others to better support successful reintegration. These initiatives help individuals build the skills and stability needed to break the cycle of addiction, crime and incarceration.

Supporting victims of crime also remained central to our efforts. This year marked the full implementation of a new regional model for police-based victim services, backed by a $25.7 million investment to improve access and consistency across the province. Another $8.1 million helped ensure victims of serious crime can access psychological supports and extended medical benefits.

Alberta also took major steps to combat human trafficking. We provided $2.5 million to the Alberta Centre to End Trafficking in Persons (AC), which is an independent hub for system coordination and survivor support. Through the Combatting Trafficking in Persons Grant, 19 organizations received a total of $5.5 million in funding. The grant program, which was developed in partnership with the AC, focuses on prevention, protection and the empowerment of victims and survivors, with priority given to Indigenous- and survivor-led initiatives. Funding was balanced across Calgary, Edmonton and rural Alberta, and approximately 40 per cent of total funding directed to Indigenous-led or serving organizations.

The ministry also continued to work with other government partners in advancing a multi-platform approach to address hate motivated crimes and incidents in the province. We provided $2.13 million in grant funding to 95 groups across Alberta, including schools, places of worship and community-based service providers for security assessments, security infrastructure improvements, training, equipment and immediate security response measures.

In the summer, wildfires prompted evacuations from a wide variety of communities, including the Municipality of Jasper, the County of Grande Prairie, the Municipal District of Greenview, the Regional Municipality of Wood Buffalo and Little Red River Cree Nation. The ministry allocated nearly $158 million in disaster recovery funding to support several communities with the costs of responding to these emergencies. We also provided training to nearly 19,300 local and municipal staff in emergency management to help ensure we are ready for whatever comes next. The legislative assembly also passed the Emergency Statutes Amendment Act, 2024, which ensures the government has the legislated authority it needs to actively manage local emergencies in times when additional provincial oversight and help is needed.

Public safety is a collective effort. Our accomplishments this year reflect the dedication of thousands of Albertans who go above and beyond to keep our communities safe. I want to extend my deepest thanks to them and to the team within the Ministry of Public Safety and Emergency Services for their hard work and service.

Ministry Overview

Public Safety and Emergency Services (PSES) is committed to keeping Albertans safe and secure, and ensuring Alberta is prepared for and resilient to the impacts of disasters. The ministry works alongside partners in law enforcement, justice, health, social services, Indigenous communities, and other community-based organizations as a part of the justice and public safety continuum to support the unique needs of Albertans, while ensuring the sustainability and resilience of the system.

PSES provides provincial policing services through an agreement with the federal government that establishes the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) as the provincial police service and supports municipal policing through policing grants. The ministry supports specialized policing, such as the Alberta Law Enforcement Response Teams (ALERT), which work to combat organized and serious crime, and investigate drug trafficking, child exploitation, human trafficking, and gang violence. The Sheriff Interdiction Patrol Team is strengthening the province's ability to secure its section of Canada's border with the United States and ensuring illegal attempts to cross the border or smuggle drugs and firearms are dealt with in a timely and appropriate manner.

The ministry is responsible for the development of policing standards and the oversight of police, public security services and peace officers. It is also working to establish a new independent agency police service to assume policing functions performed by and planned for the Alberta Sheriffs to enhance the safety of Alberta communities. Additionally, the Public Security Indigenous Advisory Committee is advising government on policing matters affecting Indigenous people within their communities.

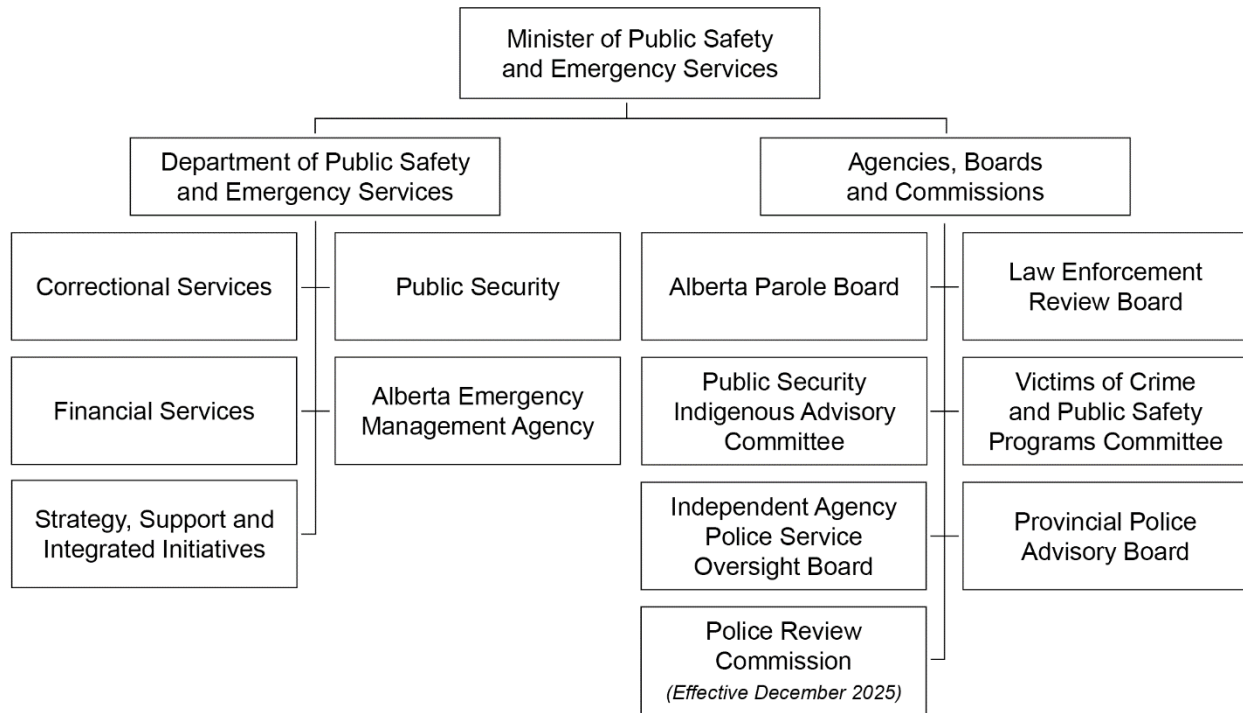

With eight provincial adult correctional centres, two provincial youth correctional centres, and over 40 probation offices across the province, the ministry is responsible for the custody and supervision of adults and young persons under correctional authority, as well as the facilitation of rehabilitation opportunities. The ministry also contracts with local Indigenous communities to provide community supervision of clients living within those communities. The ministry strives to help its correctional services clients make positive, sustainable and lawful choices.

PSES ensures the delivery of programs and services to support victims of crime, including those affected by domestic violence and human trafficking. The ministry also provides grant funding for crime prevention, youth diversion and community safety programs, including programs that focus on youth who are at high risk of becoming involved in gang and criminal activity.

The ministry leads the coordination, collaboration and cooperation of organizations involved in the prevention of, response to, and recovery from emergencies in the province. PSES provides direct emergency management support and advice to municipalities and Métis Settlements, as well as Alberta's First Nations through an agreement with the Government of Canada to help those communities manage emergencies and disasters effectively.

PSES continues to support the unique needs of Albertans involved in the criminal justice system. The ministry collaborates with the Ministry of Mental Health and Addiction and other partners to support a recovery-oriented system of care that provides access to a full continuum of services, including services that support mental health and addictions recovery. Therapeutic living units and transitional services are operational in Alberta correctional facilities.

Discussion and Analysis of Results

Actions that support the priorities of the Government of Alberta Strategic Plan

Key Priority Two: Investing in Albertans

Objective: Accelerating mental health and addiction support

Alberta's government is supporting Albertans at risk of or experiencing addiction and mental health challenges in their pursuit of recovery. This recovery-oriented system of care provides access to a full continuum of personalized, community-based services and supports, from prevention and early intervention to treatment and recovery.

For detailed reporting on supporting initiative, please refer to:

- Page 29 – Therapeutic Living Units and Transitional Services

Objective: Strengthening safe and thriving communities

Alberta's government is taking action to address crime and social disorder to ensure that all Albertans feel safe and secure in their communities. Albertans also deserve an accessible and sustainable justice system that protects them and supports safer communities. Government will protect Albertans through focused work to reduce and prevent crime, support victims of crime, and make the justice system fairer, faster, and more effective. Government will work to address racism, including the systemic barriers facing racially marginalized and Indigenous peoples and communities, to help ensure all Albertans can reach their full social and economic potential.

Outcome One: Albertans are safe and secure

Throughout 2024-25, PSES worked to ensure all Albertans are safe and secure in their communities. The department led initiatives that support the vision of contemporary and responsive policing that prioritizes the best interests of Alberta's diverse populations. These included focused work to address family and sexual violence, organized crime, hate-motivated crime, and human trafficking to further enhance the safety of Alberta's cities, communities and families and protect those vulnerable to victimization.

Key Objectives

1.1 In partnership with police services, municipalities, and Indigenous communities, implement strategies to address crime and social disorder, particularly in urban centres and transit systems.

Safe Streets Action Plan

In 2024-25, the ministry continued to strengthen public safety in Alberta's largest urban centres through targeted investments and strategic partnerships with municipal police services. A total of $18.4 million in provincial funding was allocated to the Calgary Police Service (CPS) and Edmonton Police Service (EPS) to support the recruitment, training, and deployment of 50 new police officers. These resources are dedicated to enhancing visible law enforcement presence and addressing crime and social disorder in the downtown areas of Calgary and Edmonton. Of the total investment, $10 million was provided to Calgary and $8.4 million to Edmonton.

In Edmonton, the ministry supported enhanced collaboration between the Transit Community Safety (TRACS) unit and the Edmonton Transit System peace officers. Together, proactive strategies to improve public safety in transit spaces were implemented. This included the development of an information-sharing framework and use of tools such as the Transit Centre Event Dashboard, which enables data-driven deployment of resources and targeted interventions at high-risk locations. These efforts contributed to a safer, more inclusive rider experience for Edmonton's transit users. Thirty-two officers were assigned to TRACS in 2024-25 while the additional 18 officers will be assigned in 2025-26.

In Calgary, through provincial grant funding, the Community Engagement Response Teams (CERT) expanded with the deployment of 50 new uniformed patrol officers in 2024-25. These teams focus on high-priority areas experiencing social disorder, including encampments, and integrate enforcement with compassionate outreach to support vulnerable populations. CERT's high-visibility presence helps deter crime, promote public safety, and foster greater trust between law enforcement and the communities they serve.

1.2 Continue to work with public safety stakeholders to address serious and organized crime by implementing risk reduction strategies, such as increased border support to keep crime out of Alberta. This includes work to establish the Alberta Office to Combat Trafficking in Persons (AOCTIP) and focused work on rural crime, hate-motivated crime, firearms violence, drug and human trafficking and proceeds of crime.

Alberta Law Enforcement Response Teams

In 2024-25, the ministry provided $55.7 million to support the continued operations of the Alberta Law Enforcement Response Teams (ALERT) to dismantle and disrupt crime in the province through a coordinated and collaborative approach. This funding supported a range of integrated and intelligence-led enforcement initiatives, including organized crime and gang-related violence throughout the province. ALERT's coordinated efforts continue to play a critical role in enhancing public safety, safeguarding communities, and addressing the evolving complexity of serious and violent crime.

The Integrated Gang Enforcement Team (IGET), operating under ALERT’s Combined Forces Special Enforcement Unit, is focusing on the province’s most violent gang offenders. Through coordinated enforcement strategies, IGET continued to proactively respond to gang violence, support intelligence-sharing among law enforcement partners, and increase police presence in gang-impacted communities. In addition, ALERT continued to fund and support specialized units such as the Firearms Investigative Unit (FIU) and Gang and Violence Suppression Teams in Edmonton and Calgary. The FIU, formed in 2019 by Edmonton Police Service and supported by ALERT, investigates and disrupts firearm-related offences tied to criminal networks, including illegal possession, trafficking, and manufacturing of firearms and prohibited devices. In addition, the Gang and Violence Suppression Teams continued to focus on proactively identifying individuals at risk of involvement in gun violence and assisting in suppressing gang-related firearm offences.

These integrated teams contributed to multiple successful enforcement actions and continue to provide a critical frontline response to gun and gang violence in Alberta. In 2024-25, ALERT seized over $8.83 million worth of harmful drugs from communities across Alberta and approximately $500,000 in proceeds of crime.

Quick facts:

2024-25 ALERT statistics:

Number of Internet Child Exploitation cases handled	4,582
Number of children rescued from sexual abuse and/or luring	137
Number of charges laid	1,498
Number of people arrested for organized crime-related activities	150
Number of firearms seized	105

In addition:

- over $8.8 million worth of drugs seized; and
- nearly $1.8 million worth of stolen vehicles, farming equipment and property seized.

Sheriffs Interdiction Patrol Teams

In December 2024, the Government of Alberta announced $28.6 million in funding to support the creation and expansion of the Alberta Sheriffs Interdiction Patrol Teams aimed at disrupting illegal cross-border activity, particularly along the Alberta-Montana border and major east-west interprovincial transport routes. The investment is part of a broader commitment to enhance Alberta’s response to the trafficking of deadly drugs and illegal firearms, and to strengthen border security measures in coordination with provincial and federal enforcement agencies. The funding also supports increased capacity for the Anti-Fentanyl and Illegal Gun Trafficking Implementation Team to investigate and prevent the unlawful use and distribution of fentanyl and firearms in Alberta. In January 2025, the first IPT unit comprised of members of the Alberta Sheriffs, was deployed and began coordinated patrols alongside RCMP federal policing, RCMP K-Division, and the Canada Border Services Agency. These integrated patrols focus on enhancing Alberta’s ability to detect, intercept, and respond to illegal border activity in real time. Full operational readiness of the Alberta Sheriffs Interdiction Patrol Teams is expected to be achieved in 2025-26.

Fugitive Apprehension Sheriff Support Team (FASST)

Since becoming operational in February 2024, FASST has contributed meaningfully to public safety by working with police partners to remove high-risk, wanted individuals from Alberta communities. In 2024-25, standard operating procedures and memoranda of understanding were formalized with key police partners, including the RCMP, the Medicine Hat Police Service, the Lethbridge Police Service, the Edmonton Police Service (EPS), and the Calgary Police Service (CPS). These agreements have strengthened operational coordination and clarified roles and responsibilities across agencies. During the reporting period, two joint forces operations were successfully led by the RCMP in collaboration with EPS and CPS. These operations resulted in the execution of 2,156 warrants and the arrest of 397 Tier 1 fugitives in 39 jurisdictions across the province. Tier 1 fugitives are defined as individuals who have caused harm to others, pose an elevated risk to public safety, or have a criminal history involving straight indictable offences under the Criminal Code. Work is ongoing to enhance operational effectiveness, including efforts to expand inter-agency collaboration and refine stakeholder engagement strategies to support improved safety outcomes for all Albertans.

Sheriff Investigative Support Unit (SISU)

In 2024-25, SISU expanded its operations through two new program concepts aimed at enhancing law enforcement capacity in Alberta. Sixteen additional SISU members were deployed with a dedicated rural crime mandate, while a second initiative embedded the 16-member team within ALERT, supported by dedicated operational funding. SISU provided surveillance support to 141

Quick facts:

2024 Sheriffs Highway Patrol (SHP) statistics:

Number of tickets issued	58,592
Number of impaired drivers apprehended (including Criminal Code charges)	1,429
Number of Criminal Code charges	284
Number of impaired-related Criminal Code charges	59
Number of vehicles seized from impaired or suspended drivers	1,672

Note: All impaired driving enforcement numbers in the table are related to the RAPID Response initiative cases province-wide, with the majority linked to drug trafficking and organized crime. Additional investigations supported included child exploitation, homicide, prolific and sex offenders, human trafficking, guns and gang’s activity, and auto theft. SISU continued to work closely with ALERT, the Edmonton Police Service, the Calgary Police Service, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and other government stakeholders to increase capacity for evidence gathering and advancing enforcement outcomes. Each SISU operation often targets multiple individuals involved in criminal activities, resulting in arrests and improved safety outcomes across rural Alberta.

Rural Alberta Province Integrated Defence (RAPID) Response

In 2024-25, the Government of Alberta continued to advance the RAPID Response initiative, which is aimed at enhancing public safety in rural communities through stronger integration of provincial peace officers. Under this initiative, the Alberta Sheriffs have been granted expanded authorities to support the RCMP in responding to calls for service and conducting Criminal Code investigations. The initiative equips members of the Fish and Wildlife Enforcement Services and Sheriff Highway Patrol (SHP) with the training, resources, and authority needed to provide timely and effective support in rural policing. In 2024-25, $10 million was allocated in operational investments to support the continued rollout of the RAPID Response program. These funds were used for training programs, purchase of frontline equipment, and enhanced operational capacity among participating sheriff units. The program is on track for full implementation in 2025-26, with SHP members expected to be fully equipped with carbine rifles and hard body armour to enhance officer safety and preparedness in higher-risk situations. This work complements broader efforts to improve police response times and increase visible law enforcement presence across Alberta’s rural communities.

Provincial Police Service Agreement

In 2024-25, government provided $376.7 million under the Provincial Police Service Agreement (PPSA) to provide RCMP services in Alberta small and rural communities. This funding supported nearly 1,700 RCMP officers and civilian staff to provide frontline patrols and specialized units targeting organized crime and theft. These investments aim to strengthen community safety, reduce response times, and ensure that Alberta small and rural areas receive timely and effective law enforcement support.

Actions to Combat Hate Crimes

The ministry continues to work with other Government of Alberta partners in advancing a multi-platform approach to address hate motivated crimes and incidents in the province. Since 2021, the Alberta Security Infrastructure Program (ASIP) has allocated more than $5 million to support not-for-profit organizations in strengthening their capacity to prevent and respond to hate and bias-motivated violence. In 2024-25, ASIP provided over $2.13 million to 95 initiatives which included physical security enhancements, the temporary deployment of security personnel, and the delivery of training to staff and volunteers, supporting safer, more inclusive environments across Alberta communities.

In December 2023, eligibility for the ASIP grant was temporarily expanded to include Islamic and Jewish faith-based alternative schools, as well as Arabic bilingual programs. Due to global conflict, these schools were identified as being at heightened risk of experiencing hate or bias motivated violence. This expansion to eligible schools remains in effect until December 31, 2025. More than $670,000 of the total ASIP funding awarded in 2024-25 was awarded to 19 schools under this temporary expansion. One grant, provided to the Edmonton Public School Board, consolidated available funding for eight eligible schools, reducing administrative burden and allowing the school division to improve purchasing efficiency for security enhancements and optimize safety outcomes for vulnerable students, staff, and school communities.

Ongoing outreach and engagement with community organizations, law enforcement agencies, and faith-based groups contributed to a broader awareness of ASIP and an increase in applications from a more diverse set of applicants, including shelter spaces, youth centres, and community leagues. In a survey of past ASIP recipients, 40 of the 42 respondents indicated that the funding was effective in improving safety, and many also reported increased feelings of security and reduced anxiety for those accessing their spaces. These findings affirm the government's commitment to community resilience and safety across Alberta.

In 2024-25, the PSES Hate Crime Coordination Unit (HCCU) continued to work closely with law enforcement and community stakeholders to promote investigation, prevention, and public education. The team is engaged with youth and Indigenous stakeholders, including partnerships with a rural southern Alberta school board to support anti-bullying and leadership programming. Two Hate Crime Community Liaisons (HCCLs) appointed in May 2022 completed their work which led to a series of recommendations submitted to government following broad engagement with stakeholders across sectors. Government is reviewing the recommendations, which will inform future government initiatives to address hate crime in Alberta. In 2024-25, approximately $7,500 was allocated to support HCCL honoraria and travel expenses.

Combatting Human Trafficking

In 2024, the Alberta Office to Combat Trafficking in Persons was renamed the Alberta Centre to End Trafficking in Persons (AC) and began operations as an independent non-profit entity. The AC is the ministry's partner in leading the fight to end human trafficking in Alberta. The AC received $2 million in 2024-25 to support operations, lead system coordination, develop a provincial response model, and advance implementation of the Reading Stone report recommendations. The AC officially unveiled its branding and website on February 22, 2025, National Human Trafficking Awareness Day. The organization has established a board, recruited co-CEOs, and launched both an operational advisory committee and a national Lived Experience Advisory Network to guide its work.

In 2024-25, the ministry provided $5.5 million in funding to 19 organizations through the first intake of the Combatting Trafficking in Persons (CTIP) Grant. Funding also supports province-wide engagement and model development for the AC. The grant program, which was developed in partnership with the AC, focuses on prevention, protection, and the empowerment of victims and survivors, with priority given to Indigenous- and survivor-led initiatives. Funding was balanced across Calgary, Edmonton, and rural Alberta, and approximately 40 percent of total funding was directed to Indigenous-led or serving organizations. This approach supports relationship-building with Indigenous communities and addresses community-specific needs through culturally appropriate responses.

Through CTIP funding, 19 rapid exit and transitional beds will be added across the province to provide immediate safety and access to services for individuals exiting trafficking situations. Community partners and ALERT's human trafficking teams have consistently identified the lack of emergency housing as the most significant barrier victims face. These additional beds are expected to reduce that gap and enhance long-term recovery outcomes.

The CTIP funding also supports law enforcement capacity. The ALERT Safety Network Coordinator program will expand from four to six Safety Network Coordinators with new Safety Network Coordinators stationed in Grande Prairie and Tsuut'ina Nation to align with rural and Indigenous policing priorities. The expansion will ensure victims and survivors receive support throughout the investigative process. As part of the broader grant program, the AC will develop an evaluation framework and coordinated community response model. These efforts will support consistent data collection and improve measurement of grant outcomes. Reporting from recipients will begin in 2025-26, with ongoing assessment to support ministry efforts to ensure Albertans are safe and secure.

Gun and Gang Violence Action Fund

Through the Gun and Gang Violence Action Fund (GGVAF), the ministry continues to support law enforcement, municipalities and community organizations to prevent, disrupt and increase awareness of gun and gang violence. In 2023, the federal government announced a $390 million, five-year extension of its GGVAF that provides funding to provinces and territories to strengthen law enforcement and prevention programs. Alberta's share of this funding amounts to $53.03 million. In 2024-25, Alberta provided $12.6 million in GGVAF funds to support key initiatives across municipality, community and law enforcement groups, including:

- $4.1 million to the CPS, the EPS and the Camrose Police Service to address gun and gang violence, including for the Strategic Data Integration and Intelligence Team, a firearms compliance unit, and hiring a gang intelligence analyst.
- $5.2 million to fund projects within the Government of Alberta, including $1.7 million for a firearms prosecution team within Alberta Justice, and $1.1 million for the Correctional Services Division to hire intelligence analysts and officers within provincial correctional facilities.
- $3.3 million in grants and support to community groups focused on gang prevention and gang exit programs for at-risk youth and individuals recently released from correctional facilities.

Alberta Crime Prevention Grant

The Alberta Crime Prevention grant is funded from the proceeds of property forfeited under Alberta's Civil Forfeiture Act. Civil forfeiture makes Alberta communities safer by taking away property linked to crime, such as cash, vehicles and real estate. In 2024-25, the ministry awarded approximately $2.38 million to 19 community-based organizations to support a variety of eligible projects and initiatives. A list of recipients and their funded projects can be found here: Alberta Civil Forfeiture Community Grant Funding \(2022-2024\).

Public Security Indigenous Advisory Committee (PSIAC)

The Government of Alberta continued to strengthen collaboration with Indigenous peoples to ensure public safety programs and initiatives reflect the priorities of Indigenous communities. The committee's mandate has recently been refocused specifically on policing matters affecting Indigenous peoples within their communities. The committee is composed of diverse Indigenous perspectives from Treaty 6, 7 and 8, Métis Nations and Métis Settlements, urban and rural communities. Approximately $24,000 was allocated in 2024-25 to support committee operations, including honoraria, travel, and hosting costs. The committee remains a key mechanism for ensuring culturally informed, community-driven approaches to public safety and policing in Indigenous contexts.

Community-led Crime Prevention

The ministry continued to invest in citizen-led crime prevention efforts through targeted grant funding to Alberta's three provincial community crime prevention associations: the Alberta Community Crime Prevention Association, the Alberta Provincial Rural Crime Watch Association, and the Alberta Citizens on Patrol Association. These grants directly support the department's commitment to improving community safety by enhancing local capacity in rural and municipal areas through grassroots crime prevention initiatives. Total funding available to the three associations increased from nearly $363,000 to $478,000 in 2024-25, provided in March 2024 to support timely planning and implementation of programs across Alberta. In addition to funding, the department engages regularly with each association to strengthen alignment amongst community-based initiatives and provincial public safety goals. The three organizations meet quarterly with department staff and the RCMP's Community Safety and Well-being Branch to discuss emerging trends, share local insights, and coordinate strategies to enhance public safety outcomes. These ongoing collaborations reinforce the province's commitment to community-led solutions and the vital role that local volunteers and crime prevention advocates play in keeping Alberta's communities safe.

1.3 Continue to improve the delivery of policing services in the province to ensure Albertans are safe and police are accountable to the communities they serve, including working with the Alberta Sheriffs and further investment in Indigenous policing programs.

Independent Agency Police Service

The Public Safety Statutes Amendment Act, 2024 received Royal Assent in May 2024, advancing government priorities to better protect Albertans. One key aspect of the legislation was to respond to the evolving public safety needs of Alberta's communities by enabling the creation of a new independent agency police service (IAPS). The IAPS is anticipated to assume policing responsibilities currently carried out by the Alberta Sheriffs, who have taken on increasingly complex, police-like roles in recent decades. This change to having policing roles carried out by police officers under the authority of the Police Act, rather than being conducted by peace officers under the Peace Officer Act, aligns with best practices for police work and would result in more transparency and accountability for the public. In November 2024, the Minister appointed members to the IAPS oversight board to begin the work of operationalizing the service. Initial priorities include the recruitment of a Chief of the IAPS and the development of governance and operational frameworks in accordance with legislative direction. Work to establish IAPS as a fully functioning police agency is ongoing and will continue into 2025-26 as part of the government's commitment to modernize law enforcement in Alberta.

Implementation of Mandatory Body Worn Cameras

In preparation for the province-wide implementation of body-worn cameras (BWCs) across all police services in 2025-26, PSES worked closely with the Alberta Association of Chiefs of Police to update provincial policing standards in September 2024 and advance a coordinated procurement approach. In May 2024, in collaboration with the Ministry of Technology and Innovation, a negotiated request for proposal was developed to acquire BWCs, In-Car Digital Video (ICDV) systems, and a digital evidence management system. Following a competitive bid process, a vendor was identified, and contract negotiations began. The province-wide implementation of BWCs will ensure digital evidence management across all Alberta police services, in alignment with the government's commitment to enhancing public trust, accountability, and transparency in law enforcement practices.

Police Review Commission

The Police Amendment Act, 2022, which received Royal Assent in December 2022, provides a modernized framework for police complaints oversight. Key reforms include five standardized complaint categories and the creation of the Police Review Commission (PRC), an arm's length agency responsible for receiving, assessing, investigating, and resolving complaints against police. The Alberta Serious Incident Response Team (ASIRT) will be integrated into the PRC and continue to lead investigations of a serious or sensitive nature, with an expanded mandate to include the Alberta Sheriffs, other designated peace officers and legislative security officers. The PRC is expected to become operational in December 2025. Following the creation of a dedicated implementation team in 2023-24, efforts in the past year have focused on legislative and regulatory development, community and stakeholder engagement, organizational design, staffing, branding, procurement of training and technology, change management with police services, and securing office space. Operational costs for the implementation team in 2024-2025 totaled $3.6 million.

Police Governance Regulation

In 2024-25, the Police Governance Regulation and Police Governance (Ministerial) Regulation were developed to expand on the roles, functions, and composition of RCMP governance bodies mandated by the Police Amendment Act, 2022, including the Provincial Police Advisory Board (PPAB) and municipal and regional policing committees. These new regulations were based on a series of engagement sessions in early 2024, which provided perspectives on how the new governance bodies can better support communities individual needs. The new regulations, as well as the corresponding Police Act amendments, took effect on March 1, 2025. A transition period allowed municipalities to pass and implement relevant bylaws for policing committees and providing sufficient time to stand up the PPAB.

1.4 Support municipalities and Indigenous communities interested in exploring different models of policing and public safety.

City of Grande Prairie's Transition to a Municipal Police Service

In March 2023, the City of Grande Prairie passed a resolution to establish a municipal police service. The Minister of Public Safety and Emergency Services approved $9.7 million in transition funding to support the creation of the Grande Prairie Police Service (GPPS). Funding provided over 2023-24 and 2024-25 supported key transition activities including recruitment and salaries for 48 officers and 13 civilian staff, procurement of 15 vehicles, initial information technology (IT) infrastructure, training, and other operational requirements. The GPPS is expected to be fully operational by 2026-27, with the capacity to deliver effective and community-focused policing services tailored to the needs of Grande Prairie residents.

Indigenous and Municipal Police Transition Study Grant

The Indigenous and Municipal Police Transition Study Grant (IMPTSG) supports communities exploring alternative policing and community safety models through one-time funding for feasibility studies. Since the program's inception, including 2024-25, IMPTSG has awarded $2.4 million to support 37 applications to 35 municipalities, 23 First Nations, and five Métis Settlements. In 2024-25, 18 grant recipients received approximately $1.27 million in total funding. These included Smoky Lake County, Kee Tas Kee Now Tribal Council, the Municipal District of Opportunity No. 17, the Town of Slave Lake, the City of Beaumont, Kikino Métis Settlement, Gift Lake Métis Settlement, Dene Tha' First Nation, Fort McKay First Nation, Athabasca Tribal Council, the Town of Rocky Mountain House, the Town of Cochrane, Enoch Cree Nation, the Town of Drayton Valley, the Métis Settlements General Council (MSGC), the Town of Two Hills, Town of Peace River, and O'Chiese First Nation. The program helps communities identify safety models tailored to local needs and priorities, contributing to the province's goal of supporting responsive, community-based policing and public safety solutions.

Siksika Nation Self-Administered First Nations Police Service

In June 2022, Siksika Nation presented a business case to establish a First Nation police service. A Relationship Agreement and MOU were signed with the Government of Alberta in 2023 confirming provincial support. Under the Chief's leadership, Siksika Nation is actively recruiting a Chief of Police and police commission members, while ongoing collaboration between PSES and Siksika Nation continue to guide progress. Over 2023-24 and 2024-25, the ministry provided $883,200 in funding to support the initiative. In 2025-26, coordinated effort to advance the development of the Siksika Nation police service will continue.

1.5 Implement a modern ankle bracelet electronic monitoring program to enhance the supervision of individuals under correctional jurisdiction.

In January 2025, the Government of Alberta launched a modernized electronic monitoring program for adult clients on bail or serving community-based sentences who are identified by the courts as posing a potential risk. Enabled by recent amendments to the Corrections Act and Corrections Regulation, the program monitors compliance with court-ordered conditions through the use of ankle bracelets. A central monitoring unit within the Correctional Services Division provides 24/7 oversight of electronic monitoring conditions in coordination with the supervision provided by community-based probation officers. This integrated approach supports public safety by enhancing real-time accountability and strengthening the enforcement of judicial orders. Implementation of the program has been supported by ongoing engagement with law enforcement, justice system partners, and other stakeholders to ensure operational readiness and responsiveness. This collaborative foundation will support continued program success and inform future enhancements. The program is being evaluated to assess its impact on public safety and identify opportunities for improvement. Funding of $2.8 million was allocated in fiscal 2024-25 to support initial implementation and operations.

Performance Metric 1.a:Median time from intake to resolution of Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods (SCAN) complaints¹

Prior Years' Results				2024-25 Target	2024-25 Actual
2020-21	2021-22	2022-23	2023-24
Not Available	Not Available	92 days	170 days	89 days	119 days (South Only) ²

This measure was introduced in the Public Safety and Emergency Services Business Plan for the first time in 2024-25 to assess the timeliness and efficiency of the Alberta Sheriffs' Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods (SCAN) unit in disrupting illegal activities and improving public safety.

In 2024-25, the median time from complaint intake to resolution was 119 days. This represents a 34 per cent increase from the 2024-25 target, but a 30 per cent decrease from the revised 2023-24 result of 170 days. The measure reflects the government's commitment to protecting Albertans by addressing problem properties associated with activities such as drug trafficking, prostitution, child exploitation, and gang-related crime.

Since 2023, the Alberta Sheriffs have strengthened SCAN's provincial capacity by adding 20 new investigator positions, expanding staffing in Edmonton and Calgary, and establishing new units in Lethbridge and Red Deer to serve southern Alberta. In 2024, SCAN received and accepted 951 complaints for investigation, up from 698 in 2023, a figure expected to increase as public awareness and community engagement grow.

The time required to resolve complaints varies based on several factors. Investigations involving community safety orders may take up to three years to resolve due to the complexity and need to uphold investigative quality, especially when case statuses shift between active and inactive.

² Only data from the provincial south region has been included in the calculation of the 2024-25 actual result due to a data entry issue in the northern region, which significantly affected the reliability of the results. The ministry has since implemented enhanced data validation protocols, provided targeted training to regional staff responsible for data entry, and introduced an additional review step in the reporting process to ensure data accuracy and to prevent similar issues from occurring in future reporting cycles.

Additionally, timelines can be affected by the scheduling and duration of court and residential tenancy dispute resolution service hearings, which fall outside SCAN’s control.

The nature of complaints also influences resolution timelines. While some files are straightforward, others require extensive investigative work, including surveillance, evidence collection, and coordination with law enforcement partners.

To ensure SCAN continues to meet the needs of Albertans, the ministry is maintaining support for investigative operations by funding new positions, expanding its regional presence through permanent offices in Lethbridge and Red Deer, and enhancing collaboration with the RCMP and municipal police services in central Alberta to disrupt drug houses and support broader criminal investigations.

This performance measure will provide ongoing insight into the SCAN unit’s ability to respond to community concerns and contribute to safer, more secure neighbourhoods across Alberta.

Performance Indicator 1.a:
Violent and Property Crime Rates per 100,000 population

	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023
Alberta Violent Crime Rate	1,462	1,455	1,519	1,561	1,591
Rural	2,243	2,410	2,470	2,539	2,551
Urban	1,291	1,246	1,312	1,352	1,392
Alberta Property Crime Rate	5,894	5,070	4,599	5,061	4,752
Rural	7,441	6,843	6,416	6,786	6,673
Urban	5,545	4,674	4,197	4,685	4,349

*Data has been revised by the Canadian Centre for Justice and Community Safety Statistics since the 2024-27 business plan’s publication.

Crime rate measures the volume of crime, including all Criminal Code violations (except traffic) relative to population size and is shown as urban and rural results. Violent crime includes homicide, attempted murder, robbery, abduction and various forms of sexual assault. It does not include traffic incidents that result in death or bodily harm.

Violent Crime Rate

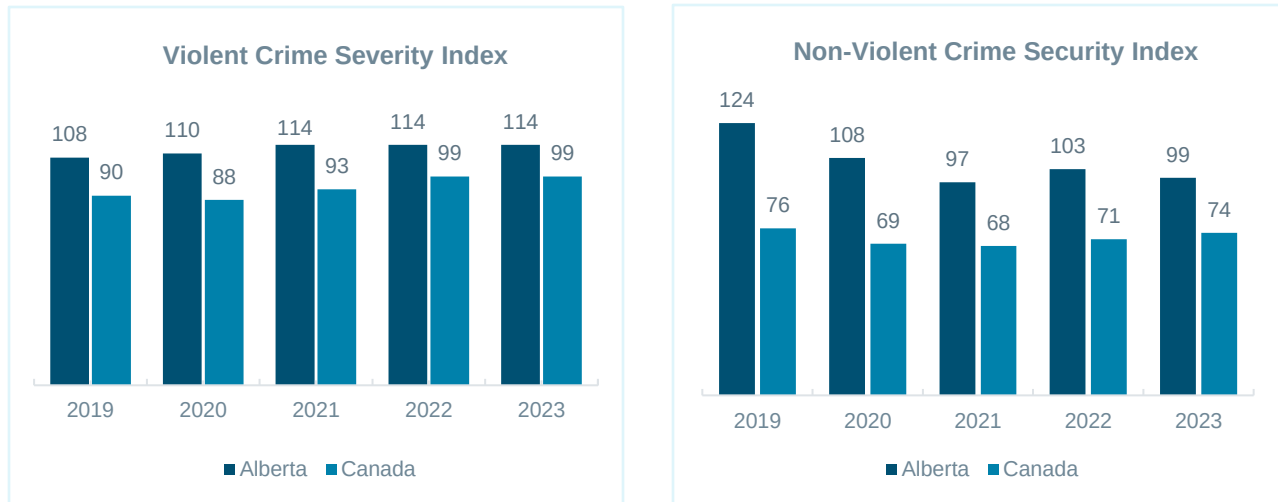

In 2023, Alberta saw a small increase in violent crime. The overall rate went up by 1.9 per cent compared to the year before. Urban Alberta had a three per cent increase, while rural areas had a slight increase of 0.5 per cent. Most of the increase was due to a rise in extortion cases, which went up by 25.7 per cent. However, some serious crimes dropped. Attempted murder went down by 14 per cent, firearm-related incidents reduced by nearly one per cent, and abductions decreased by 2 per cent. These crimes were the main drivers of violent crime in the previous year.

Property Crime Rate

In 2023, property crime in Alberta went down by 6.1 per cent overall. Rural areas saw a drop of 1.7 per cent, while urban areas had a larger decrease of 7.2 per cent. Compared to 2019, property crime is down 19.4 per cent across the province: 22 per cent lower in urban areas and 10 per cent lower in rural communities. The decrease in 2023 was mainly due to fewer cases of trafficking in stolen property (down 13 per cent), identity fraud (down 2.2 per cent), and identity theft (down 9.5 per cent).

Performance Indicator 1.b:
Violent and Non-violent Crime Severity Index³

Source: Uniform Crime Reporting Survey, Canadian Centre for Justice and Community Safety Statistics (CCJCSS). Data is available annually. CCJCSS Table data was available in July 2024.

The Crime Severity Index (CSI) measures the volume and severity of police-reported crime in Canada. It has a base index value of 100 for 2006. The Violent CSI measures the overall volume and severity of violent crime. Non-violent crime involves all police-reported property violations, other Criminal Code violations, Criminal Code traffic violations and other federal statute violations.

The ministry continues to act on a number of fronts as part of its commitment to reduce crime, including implementing RAPID Response, increasing funding to ALERT, hiring additional investigators to support Alberta's SCAN units, increasing police resources in high crime city centres, creating dedicated border patrol teams, and supporting initiatives to combat hate crimes and human trafficking. These initiatives are ensuring that Albertans are better protected from criminals wherever they are in the province.

Overall Crime Severity Index (CSI)

In 2023, Canada's CSI rose by 2.2 per cent, mainly due to increase in non-violent crimes. While 10 of 13 provinces and territories saw increases, Alberta's CSI dropped by 2.1 per cent. Calgary and Red Deer saw notable decreases of 8.5 per cent and 10.6 per cent, while Lethbridge and Edmonton experienced increases of 6.9 per cent and 2.9 per cent. Alberta's overall decline in CSI was driven by decreases in property crimes and serious violent offences like attempted murder and child sexual offences, though this was partly offset by increase in extortion and arson.

Violent Crime Severity Index

The national violent CSI was 99.4 in 2023, a 0.39 per cent increase over the 2022 index of 99, and 35 per cent higher than in 2013. Similarly, Alberta saw a slight increase of 0.27 per cent in the Violent CSI in 2023 over the 2022 index as a result of the increase in extortion.

Non-violent Crime Severity Index

In 2023, the national non-violent CSI was 73.5, 3.1 per cent higher than in 2022. In 2023, Alberta's Non-violent CSI decreased by 3.2 per cent from the level in 2022. This was as a result of the declines seen in most of the property crimes, including trafficking in stolen property, motor vehicle theft, theft over and under $5,000, identity theft and identity fraud.

Outcome Two: Albertans are supported in their interactions with the justice system

The ministry continued to implement initiatives to modernize the delivery of correctional services, including collaborating with Mental Health and Addiction on the implementation of a recovery-oriented system of care that provides a network of community-based services that support those with or at risk of alcohol, drug, or mental health issues. The implementation of a new victims assistance program and a new victim services delivery model also ensure improved access and consistent services for victims of crime.

Key Objectives

2.1 Work with municipalities, police services, community-based organizations, and other ministries to improve the alignment of mental health and addictions crisis response resources in community policing and corrections.

Correctional Services Delivery

The Correctional Services Division (CSD) is responsible for the supervision and care of adults and young persons under provincial correctional jurisdiction. With operations spanning 10 adult and youth correctional centres and more than 40 probation offices across Alberta, the division supports client rehabilitation through the assessment of individual needs and risks. In partnership with community organizations and service providers, CSD enables structured programming and vocational training designed to equip individuals with the skills needed for successful community reintegration. By being responsive and using evidence-based interventions, the ministry is working to reduce recidivism and support positive, lawful behaviour. These efforts enhance public safety and help build stronger, more resilient communities across the province. In 2024-25, the ministry spent approximately $317.8 million in operating provincial correctional facilities and delivering community supervision services to ensure the effective and accountable operation of Alberta's correctional system.

Integrated Offender Management Strategy

Through the Integrated Offender Management (IOM) program, the ministry continues to support a person-centered approach to reducing recidivism by addressing the underlying factors that contribute to criminal behaviour. In collaboration with Case Development Groups (CDGs) across Alberta, the ministry advanced efforts in 2024-25 by enabling members of various law enforcement agencies to assume facilitation roles within the program, strengthening coordination and contributing to overall community safety. IOM operations expanded to include 20 RCMP detachments, supported by monthly meetings across 14 CDGs, and 12 provincial IOM meetings were held to align strategies with broader policing objectives and improve inter-agency information-sharing. To enhance oversight and ensure consistency, the ministry initiated a comprehensive review of IOM operations to standardize reporting metrics and evaluated four secondee contracts to reinforce the program's operational framework. These secondee contracts represented a total investment of $690,000 across participating law enforcement agencies. Moving forward, the ministry will continue to evaluate program effectiveness, apply lessons learned and pursue opportunities to further integrate IOM with community safety partners across Alberta, with the goal of reducing repeat offences and improving outcomes for at-risk individuals.

Quick facts:

2024-25 Correctional Services statistics:

Total admissions into provincial adult custody	20,000
Total releases from provincial adult custody	19,934
Monthly average number of clients under community supervision	17,186

Mental Health Policy Advisory Committee

In 2024-25, the ministry, through the Mental Health and Addiction Police Advisory Committee, continued to provide a platform for collaborative information-sharing, issue resolution, and the alignment of resources among police services, mental health and addiction specialists, policy leaders, and government and community-based service providers. The committee worked across the province to strengthen coordinated responses to mental health-related calls by:

- distributing 3,000 copies and printing an additional 3,000 copies of the Police Considerations for Mental Health-Related Calls Quick Reference Guide, which clarifies the responsibilities of police in responding to such calls;
- distributing 18,000 copies of the Addiction and Mental Health Supports Public Resource Card, with 7,000 more printed to ensure vulnerable Albertans and their families are informed about available government supports;
- continuing to implement the HealthIM app-based program under a three-year contract valued at $2,219,760.00 ($739,920 annually). in collaboration with law enforcement, the Ministry of Mental Health and Addiction (MHA), and other stakeholders, set to expire in March 2026 with an option to extend for one additional year; and
- continuing to implement the Provincial Law Enforcement Mental Health Consultation Line, funded by a $210,000 contribution from MHA, to expedite access to mental health professionals and connect individuals with appropriate community supports.

These initiatives are helping ensure that police services across Alberta are equipped with the necessary tools to promote wellness, support recovery and contribute to safer communities.

2.2 Implement therapeutic living units and supports in correctional facilities in alignment with and commitment to a recovery-oriented system of care.

Therapeutic Living Units

As part of the Government of Alberta's commitment to a recovery-oriented system of care, the ministry continued to partner with MHA to establish Therapeutic Living Units (TLUs) within provincial correctional facilities. TLUs provide individuals in custody who are at risk of substance use disorders and mental health concerns with access to holistic, evidence-based addiction treatment aimed at supporting recovery and reducing the risk of recidivism. The first three TLUs were launched in 2023, with a fourth unit opening at the Calgary Correctional Centre in May 2024.

In 2024-25, the ministry continued its partnership with Beccarian Correctional Care (formerly Recovery Oriented Systems of Care Solutions Group) and MHA to operate and deliver programming in the TLUs. Correctional staff oversee unit operations and work closely with Beccarian

Quick facts:

In 2024-25:

- Average daily occupancy rate in the TLUs was 90 per cent
- 54 individuals successfully completed in-custody programming.

Correctional Care to identify candidates suitable for participation. The program is voluntary and available to sentenced individuals who have an aggregate sentence of at least 90 days, and to remanded individuals with a minimum of 90 days remaining before a major court appearance, a demonstrated need for substance use treatment, and who meet specific eligibility criteria.

To further enhance support services, transitional services operated by Beccarian were implemented across Alberta's remaining adult correctional facilities between June and December 2024. These transitional services are accessible to individuals who are ineligible for TLUs due to limited time in custody or other eligibility constraints and focus on connecting clients with recovery communities, treatment programs and community-based supports prior to release. In 2024-25, the ministry received $3.43 million from MHA to support the operation of the TLUs and associated transitional services across Alberta.

2.3 Continue to modernize corrections technology to enhance service delivery and promote system sustainability.

Wi-Fi in Provincial Correctional Centres

Reliable Wi-Fi connectivity is essential to modernizing operations and delivering enhanced services within Alberta's correctional facilities. Building on the initial implementation of wireless infrastructure at the Edmonton Remand Centre, the ministry expanded its efforts in 2024-25, and in partnership with the Ministry of Technology and Innovation invested $543,500 to successfully implement Wi-Fi at the Red Deer Remand Centre. This initiative is part of a broader strategy to improve access to secure, digital tools that support rehabilitation, education, and operational efficiency. During the fiscal year, a competitive procurement process was completed, and a vendor was selected to develop wiring plans and commence construction at additional correctional centres across the province. Once fully operational, the Wi-Fi infrastructure will support the delivery of stakeholder-led programming and services, such as post-secondary institution educational services, community-based programming and health-care services. These improvements will increase service accessibility for inmates while enabling staff to streamline workflows and enhance facility operations.

New Internet-based Video Visitation System

In 2024-25, the ministry advanced its efforts to support family and community connections for individuals in custody through the implementation of a new video visitation system. In partnership with the Ministry of Technology and Innovation, the system was launched at the Edmonton Remand Centre to facilitate personal visits, with $1.03 million invested specifically to support monitoring services through a contract with the Elizabeth Fry Society. The new platform allows visitors to connect remotely from any location using their personal devices, which significantly expanded daily visitation capacity. Maintaining meaningful contact with family, friends, and community supports is a key factor in successful reintegration and long-term rehabilitation. During the fiscal year, video visitation services were extended to include professional visits, enabling secure virtual access for probation officers, legal counsel and law enforcement personnel. The ministry is currently assessing opportunities to expand the video visitation system to additional provincial correctional centres to further enhance connectivity, reduce administrative burden and improve outcomes for individuals in custody.

Quick facts:

2024-25 Correctional Services Technology Statistics:

- 2,259 inmates across three correctional centres had access to Wi-Fi services in 2024-25.
- More than 5,500 visitors have registered for the Video Visitation System service since implementation in February 2024.

2.4 Improve awareness of Clare's Law and other tools to assist Albertans at risk of domestic violence make informed decisions about their safety.

Clare's Law Public Awareness Campaign

The Disclosure to Protect Against Domestic Violence (Clare's Law) Act empowers individuals at risk of domestic violence by providing them with critical information about a current or former intimate partner's history of domestic violence or related behaviours. This disclosure enables individuals to make informed decisions about their personal safety and take steps to prevent victimization or re-victimization. The Alberta Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre is responsible for the operationalization of Clare's Law, including coordination with law enforcement and community partners.

In 2024-25, the ministry spent $300,000 in funding from the Federal National Action Plan to end gender-based violence to implement a range of awareness and capacity-building initiatives. This included printing and distributing educational materials, engaging a qualified vendor to conduct two targeted surveys, expanding the Clare's Law social service response, and supporting stakeholder training sessions delivered by the ministry's Clare's Law coordinator. Awareness and education activities related to Clare's Law will continue as part of a long-term engagement strategy, with training and materials made available to frontline professionals, service providers and community members across the province.

2.5 Improve access to timely and efficient services and supports for victims of crime and tragedy.

Victims of Crime Assistance Program

Alberta's Victims of Crime Assistance Program (VAP) provides timely access to financial assistance and related supports for individuals impacted by violent crime. Administered in partnership with Alberta Blue Cross, the program issues victims their own victims of crime Alberta Blue Cross card, which can be used to access extended medical benefits directly related to injuries sustained from victimization. Approved health service providers may invoice Alberta Blue Cross directly for treatment and support services, while victims may also be reimbursed for eligible emergency-related expenses, including:

- safety and security related out-of-pocket expenses;
- immediate need, and basic necessity expenses;
- emergency temporary accommodation;
- relocation expenses for human trafficking victims;
- emergency travel funding for those seeking to escape domestic violence;
- reimbursement for medical aid repair, replacement, or newly required aids; and
- other additional unexpected costs incurred by the victim as a result of the crime.

In 2024-25, the ministry received and processed 2,974 applications and allocated over $8.1 million to support victims of crime through the VAP. By offering responsive and trauma-informed assistance, the ministry is ensuring victims receive the support they need when it matters most. Program data collected on funding decisions will inform future improvements and ensure the evolving needs of victims across Alberta are effectively addressed.

New Victim Services Delivery Model

In 2024-25, $25.7 million was provided to support provision of services to victims of crime and tragic circumstances. This included funding for external partner organizations to provide vital supports and services to victims of crime and tragedy, including the establishment of a new regional model for police-based victim services. The updated provincial model for victim services encompasses:

- a regional governance structure for RCMP-based victim services, focusing on Alberta's smaller, rural, and remote communities;
- continued funding for municipalities and Indigenous Nations operating their own police agencies; and
- specialized support for victims of specific crimes or those requiring additional assistance.

This past year, Alberta's government transitioned from funding 60 independent victim-serving societies to four integrated regional victim serving societies (RVSS), ensuring that resources are deployed to underserved areas and, improving access to immediate support. The transition was facilitated by up to six months of funding for victim-serving societies under the old model to minimize disruption to victims, communities, and staff. The RVSS are regionally aligned with RCMP district boundaries, allowing for enhanced service delivery. Local frontline court and support navigators work out of RCMP detachments, ensuring victims receive support within their own communities. This new delivery model aims to foster greater collaboration and integration among criminal justice stakeholders, resulting in more operational efficiency and increasing victim participation in the justice system.

Performance Measure 2.a:Average days to decision for applications to the Victims of Crime Assistance Program

2020-21	2021-22	2022-23	2023-24
58 days	35 days	66 days	49 days	40 days	44 days

This performance measure evaluates the effectiveness of the VAP in providing timely support to victims of crime. It demonstrates the ministry's commitment to offering prompt, direct assistance to those affected by crime by ensuring that applications are adjudicated quickly upon receipt. The legacy victims of crime financial Benefits program required extensive police and medical documentation to determine eligibility, which often resulted in significant delays due to lengthy court processes.

In 2024-25, the average time to decision for VAP applications was higher than the target of 40 days but saw a 10.2 per cent improvement compared to 2023-24. Factors affecting the 2024-25 performance include the learning curve associated with onboarding and training new Frontline Court & Support Navigators, following the October 2024 launch of the RVSS. VAP staff worked closely with RVSS staff and clients to gather necessary information for decision-making to facilitate smoother adjudication processes.

Performance Measure 2.b:Average daily occupancy rate in Therapeutic Living Units in Provincial Correctional Centres

2020-21	2021-22	2022-23	2023-24
Not Available	Not Available	Not Available	87%	71%	90%

This new performance measure, introduced in the 2024-27 business plan, tracks the occupancy rate of available bedspaces in the Therapeutic Living Unit (TLU) program. The first TLU was established at the Red Deer Remand Centre in July 2023, followed by openings at the Lethbridge Correctional Centre in October 2023, Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Centre in February 2024, and the Calgary Correctional Centre in May 2024. Given that the TLUs have only been fully operational since May 2024, there is limited historical data to assess baseline trends.

In 2024-25, the TLU daily occupancy rate exceeded its target of 71 per cent. On average, available TLU bed spaces were filled to 90 per cent capacity throughout the year. Operational adjustments, including reductions in available bed spaces for infrastructure maintenance, were accounted for to ensure accurate representation of occupancy rates.

This performance measure supports the ministry's commitment to a recovery-oriented system of care, aimed at providing comprehensive mental health and addiction recovery services. It also aligns with the mandate of the ministry to assess client needs and offer evidence-based rehabilitation.

Occupancy rates may fluctuate due to factors such as inmates' length of stay in custody. A 90 per cent occupancy rate indicates that the TLU program is effectively identifying eligible participants and completing admissions efficiently. This measure also reflects the significant demand for such programming within correctional facilities and highlights the willingness of Alberta's inmate population to participate.

Outcome Three: Alberta is prepared and resilient to the impacts of disasters

Public Safety and Emergency Services is dedicated to supporting municipalities and communities throughout all stages of emergencies and disasters, including preparedness, response, and recovery, through the Alberta Emergency Management Agency (AEMA). The Provincial Emergency Coordination Centre (PECC) plays a critical role in monitoring and reporting on events across Alberta, providing a centralized space for coordination during actual emergencies. Continued enhancements to emergency communication systems and public alerting services ensure that Albertans receive accurate and timely information in the face of emerging threats, helping to protect lives and property. The ministry's ongoing efforts focus on improving coordination, response time, and community resilience, ensuring that Alberta is well-prepared to face the challenges posed by natural and human-made disasters.

Key Objectives

3.1 Support Albertans and communities to raise their awareness of disaster risk and preventative action.

Fire and Flood Mitigation Strategy

In alignment with the government's mandate to develop a flood and fire mitigation strategy, the ministry continued to support cross-government collaboration on this strategy. The Ministry of Forestry and Parks serves as the lead agency for wildfires, while the Ministry of Environment and Protected Areas leads flood mitigation efforts. In 2024-25, the ministry contributed input to the development of a provincial fire mitigation strategy alongside Forestry and Parks. This ongoing collaboration ensures a comprehensive, multi-agency approach to reducing the risks and impacts of future natural disasters and further enhances the safety and resilience of Alberta's communities.

Provincial Hazard Identification and Risk Assessment program

In 2024-25, the ministry began implementing the Hazard Identification and Risk Assessment (HIRA) framework, aimed at providing a standardized process for assessing disaster risks across the province. This initiative supports government departments and stakeholders by ensuring consistent, integrated decision-making to reduce the likelihood and impact of disasters. In December 2024, the HIRA implementation approach was endorsed, which includes identifying priority hazards and establishing an assessment schedule for 2025.

In line with the September 2020 Office of the Auditor General report recommendations, the ministry developed training courses and an online e-tool to enhance stakeholder capacity in risk assessments. This included the development of three

Quick facts:

2024-25 stakeholder satisfaction result for the HIRA's training program:

- 92 per cent of participants strongly agreed that the course clearly explains HIRA concepts.
- 100 per cent of participants agreed or strongly agreed that course content is logically and clearly structured.
- 100 per cent of participants rated course materials as good or excellent.

core courses: HIRA Orientation, HIRA Application, and the HIRA e-tool course. Additionally, an application based on the Geographic Information System (GIS) is being developed to improve risk visualization across Alberta. Phase 1 of HIRA implementation is underway, with stakeholder engagement on a flood risk assessment in Lethbridge in March 2025 and Cochrane in April 2025. Further assessments are planned for other beginning of 2025-26 and continuing thereafter on a rotating basis.

Be Prepared Program

In 2024-25, the ministry continued to enhance the Be Prepared Program to build resilience and disaster risk literacy across Alberta. This program promotes disaster preparedness through research, public education, and strategic partnerships. In July 2024, the program released its fourth annual Preparedness Survey of Albertans, with 1,535 respondents providing valuable insights into Albertans' readiness and resilience in the event of a disaster which shaped programming and outreach strategy. The annual budget for the Survey of Albertans was $20,000. The Resilience Builders Network, a virtual community focused on public preparedness, grew by 61 per cent during the fiscal year. Recent program updates include new content addressing water shortages and extreme heat. The program was promoted at several conferences, including Bordering on Disaster (September 2024), the Rural Municipalities of Alberta Conference (November 2024), and teachers' conventions (February 2025), engaging over 580 representatives. Conference participation further strengthens interprovincial collaboration, targets rural preparedness needs, and bridges youth preparedness gaps, through resources like the National Test Alert Guide which was downloaded 91 times in 2024.

Emergency Management and Emergency Social Services (ESS) Training

The ministry continued enhancing the ESS program to support communities during emergencies and disasters, focusing on training and supporting the consistent delivery of essential services. In 2024-25, two new ESS courses were introduced, delivering 106 in-person and virtual sessions and equipping 2,388 participants with the skills to assist evacuees and those impacted by emergencies. ESS provides critical support for displaced individuals, covering basic needs such as food, clothing, and accommodation.

To enhance disaster preparedness and community resilience across Alberta, the ministry continues to provide training and sets standards for individuals with responsibilities under emergency management regulations. In 2024-25, 20 emergency management courses were delivered through 502 sessions, engaging 19,286 participants. These initiatives help to build resilience, ensure readiness, and strengthen Alberta's capacity to manage disaster impacts.

Regional Field Officer and First Nation Field Officer Programs

In 2024, Regional and First Nations Field Operations continued to enhance Alberta's emergency management capacity by building local readiness, providing expert planning and response support, and conducting in-person reviews of emergency management plans. Field officers played a critical role in wildfire response efforts, assisting evacuations in Peace River, Fort McMurray and Edmonton. In Jasper, officers supported unified command efforts for more than 30 days. First Nations field officers also aided the Little Red River Cree Nation during the Semo Complex wildfires, helping evacuate 6,000 members. These coordinated efforts reflect the ministry's growing proficiency in the Incident Command System and the Alberta Incident Management System, strengthening Alberta's overall resilience and improving emergency response across the province.

3.2 Work with emergency management partners to enhance the coordination of disaster response and recovery across Alberta, including timely and fiscally responsible administration of disaster financial assistance.

Disaster Financial Assistance Programs

In 2024, the Disaster Recovery Program (DRP) continued to support individuals, small businesses and local authorities impacted by eligible disaster events through financial assistance, expert advice and coordinated recovery resources. The Minister approved two DRP initiatives: $149 million for the Municipality of Jasper, which included assistance for 11 ministries to address disaster response costs and provide temporary accommodations for essential personnel, and $2.8 million for the Regional Municipality of Wood Buffalo, which included assistance for the Ministry of Transportation and Economic Corridors' response-related costs. The Jasper wildfire posed unique challenges, with damage zones crossing federal, provincial and municipal jurisdictions, complicating roles and responsibilities throughout response and recovery operations.

Municipal Wildfire Assistance Programs

Throughout 2024-25, the province-wide Municipal Wildfire Assistance Program (MWAP) continued to provide critical financial support to municipalities facing extraordinary wildfire suppression costs outside of Alberta's Forest Protection Area. The program assists local authorities with incremental expenses that exceed regular firefighting operations. Two MWAP applications were approved during the year: $2.6 million for the County of Grande Prairie No. 1 and $3.6 million for the Municipal District of Peace No. 135. These approvals reflect the province's ongoing commitment to ensuring municipalities have the necessary resources to respond effectively to wildfire threats and protect their communities, infrastructure and natural environments.

Provincial Flood Stockpile

The Provincial Flood Stockpile, established to strengthen Alberta's flood emergency readiness, provides essential equipment and supplies to support communities and municipalities during flood events. In 2024-25, Foothills County received $105,000 to support ongoing stockpile maintenance and staffing. In addition, stockpile resources were deployed to four communities, including the Town of Fahler, Village of Linden, County of Forty Mile and Town of Milk River in response to flooding hazards. As part of the province's broader flood mitigation strategy, the Provincial Flood Stockpile plays a vital role in ensuring timely, coordinated responses that help protect lives, property and critical infrastructure across the province.

Personal Protective Equipment Strategic Stockpile (PPESS)

The PPESS initiative maintains a 60-day reserve of critical personal protective equipment, including gloves, masks, face shields, gowns, disinfectant wipes, and hand sanitizer, for Alberta's non-healthcare sector during health emergencies. In July 2024, the stockpile refresh project was launched, replacing 3.3 million Level 3 masks and face shields. The team collaborated with Service Alberta and Red Tape Reduction to issue a request for proposal, secure vendor quotes and prepare warehouse space. By leveraging Government of Canada standing offers, inventory costs were reduced by 78 per cent, with total expenditures of $378,000. The refresh project is expected to be completed by 2027-28.

Provincial Emergency Coordination Centre (PECC)

In 2024, the PECC continued to serve as Alberta's 24/7 hub for the coordination of the province's response to emergency and disasters. The PECC collects, evaluates and shares critical information during single or multiple incidents, and supports First Nations and local authorities during response across the province. During the 2024 wildfire season, the PECC played a key role in coordinating support for communities affected across central and northern Alberta, including the evacuation of the Municipality of Jasper due to a wildfire in Jasper National Park.

Wildland Urban Interface Field Officer Program

The Wildland Urban Interface (WUI) is where human infrastructure borders undeveloped wildlands and usually presents complex wildfire management challenges. WUI field officers play a key role in mitigation, preparedness and response, working closely with municipal and First Nations fire departments to strengthen coordination and resource support. WUI response teams deliver emergency wildfire response, support the provincial WUI advisory committees, and lead training and education initiatives. In 2024-25, the program trained over 700 municipal and First Nations fire service members. To meet increasing demand, the program will expand from two to six teams in 2025-26. This enhanced capacity is supported by over $4 million in new funding from Natural Resources Canada and Alberta Forestry and Parks.

Quick facts:

In 2024-25, PECC was elevated above Level 1 for 35 days:

- Five days in May 2024 due to wildfires impacting communities across northern Alberta.
- Thirty days in July 2024 to support wildfire response efforts in central and northern Alberta, including the Jasper National Park wildfire, which affected the Municipality of Jasper.

Alberta First Responders' Radio Communication System

The ministry remains committed to enhancing the reliability of the Alberta First Responders Radio Communication System (AFFRCS) to ensure first responders have access to an efficient radio communication network during emergencies. AFFRCS offers a secure, public-safety-grade radio network, extending coverage to over 95 per cent of the province along major highways. Channel upgrades at six sites have significantly improved radio traffic capacity, with ongoing maintenance ensuring 24/7 reliability. Despite rising preventative maintenance costs and financial uncertainties affecting upgrades, the ministry is addressing these challenges through strategic planning, technological innovation, and close collaboration with public safety partners.

Alberta Emergency Alert Program

AEMA plays a vital role in delivering timely, life-saving information during emergencies such as wildfires, floods and tornadoes. The Alberta Emergency Alert system continues to be enhanced to ensure effective public warnings. In 2024-25, AEMA supported 410 live alert issuers, over 1,000 trained users, 84 police alerters, 326 community alerters, and four 24/7 Government of Alberta warning notification coordinators. The system remains a trusted tool for keeping Albertans safe and informed. Ongoing collaboration with Public Safety Canada, provinces, territories and industry partners ensures integration of best practices and evolving technologies.

Emergency Social Services (ESS)

In 2024-25, the ministry continued to support local authorities in addressing emergency social services needs ensuring essential needs are met for evacuated Albertans. The ESS team expanded from four to seven officers, aligning more closely with Regional Field Operations. The ministry also maintained the Registration and Reception Centre Program to help local authorities track displaced residents. Additionally, a new information-sharing platform was introduced to strengthen collaboration among ESS leads across Alberta. Operational cost for ESS initiatives in 2024-25 was $797,000.

All Hazards Incident Management Teams

To strengthen Alberta's emergency management capacity, the ministry continued to invest in the development and support of municipal and regional capabilities for hazard management. In 2024-25, five regional All-Hazard Incident Management Teams (AHIMTs) were equipped to enhance response capabilities during emergencies or disasters that exceed local resources. Supported through a conditional annual grant of $250,000 shared across five teams, the funding enables continued operations and specialized training. The AEMA also provides centralized training to ensure interoperability across all AHIMTs. Team members contribute their expertise to their home municipalities, creating an added benefit that improves local response capacity, and this has been recognized as a key success of the initiative.

Emergency Management Exercise (EMX) 2024 and 2025

Quick facts:

In 2024-25,

- SAR Alberta reported increases in activity compared to 2023 (excluding parks and fire departments):
 - 30 per cent increase in incidents responded to (480)
 - 20 per cent increase in regular service hours (154,606)
 - 80 per cent increase in disaster service hours (12,025)
- During the 2024 wildfire season, 19 SAR teams and 303 volunteers supported responses at 13 locations across Alberta.
 - Jasper wildfire involved 53 volunteers contributing 4,587 hours.
- The Underwater Search Team responded to 15 incidents, logging 582 on-scene hours.
- Estimated value of skilled volunteer labour: $4,180,325.

On April 4, 2024, the AEMA conducted EMX 24, a full-day tabletop exercise designed to strengthen emergency management coordination within the Government of Alberta. The exercise engaged 87 executive leaders to enhance understanding of crisis roles and responsibilities. Key themes included improving communication, clarifying authority, enhancing decision-making, expanding training and refining emergency planning processes. On March 20, 2025, AEMA held EMX 25, focusing on coordinated response to concurrent emergencies, such as evacuations, wildfires and major event disruptions. This functional exercise brought together the government's consequence management and business continuity officers, PECC personnel, senior government leaders and federal partners. Informed by the challenges of the 2024 hazard season, EMX 25 provided a critical opportunity to test and improve emergency procedures, ensuring a more effective and coordinated provincial response in future emergencies. Operational cost for EMX exercises in 2024-25 was $70,000.

Improving the delivery of search and rescue operations

PSES continued to implement government's mandate to review and recommend improvements to Alberta's search and rescue (SAR) delivery model and funding. In 2024-25, SAR Alberta received $2 million in interim grant funding to support administration, operations, equipment, and training.

3.3 Develop and implement initiatives that contribute to continuous improvement and refinement of the province's emergency management framework.

Emergency Management Legislative Review

On May 9, 2024, the Emergency Statutes Amendment Act, 2024 (ESAA) was introduced to strengthen Alberta's emergency management framework in response to lessons learned during the 2023 wildfire season. The amendments to the Emergency Management Act (EMA) introduced several enhancements, including new ministerial authorities to improve coordination and oversight during emergencies. Local authorities are now required to notify the Minister of both the anticipated powers they intend to exercise under a State of Local Emergency (SOLE) and the termination of a declared SOLE. In addition, new provisions were established outlining compensation requirements when the Minister assumes control of a local emergency response. These amendments ensure Alberta has stronger legislative tools to protect communities from increasingly frequent and complex hazards such as wildfires, floods and droughts. The ESAA came into force on May 30, 2024.

Further amendments to the EMA in 2025-26 will address rising disaster-related costs, improve oversight and accountability, and support more robust all-hazard emergency planning at the local level. Input from experts representing 68 communities across Alberta helped shape these updates. Further regulatory amendments to the Government Emergency Management Regulation, Local Authority Emergency Management Regulation and Disaster Recovery Regulation, will ensure Alberta's emergency management system continues to evolve in response to emerging risks.

2023 Spring Hazards Post-Incident Assessment

In response to the 2023 hazard season, internal post-incident assessments were completed by Government of Alberta ministries involved in emergency response, while a broader external review is ongoing through a third-party vendor and will continue into the 2025 hazard season. Several interim improvements are already being implemented, including updated operational policies and standard operating procedures at the PECC, expansion of the WUI program from two to six teams, and the redevelopment of Alberta's Emergency Social Services Framework. These assessments are essential to identifying strengths, addressing gaps and enhancing preparedness, accountability and overall emergency response capacity. Operational cost for the third-party review was $699,000.

Advocacy on Disaster Financial Assistance Arrangements.

Alberta collaborated with Public Safety Canada (PSC) to modernize disaster financial assistance, providing input and advocating for improvements. After receiving the Government of Canada's draft modernized Disaster Financial Assistance Arrangements (DFAA) guidelines in May 2024, Alberta started aligning its provincial disaster financial assistance with the modernized DFAA to improve federal mitigation funding access, streamline administration and enhance disaster resilience. Alberta, as co-chair of the Canadian Council of Emergency Management Organizations' Recovery Working Group, led national discussions on implementation strategies and challenges. Alberta also hosted a DFAA workshop in Edmonton in November 2024 with attendees from Saskatchewan and British Columbia. PSC delivered training on the modernized DFAA and gathered provincial and territorial feedback on program material and implementation improvements. New Disaster Assistance Directives have been developed, including legislative updates to the Emergency Management Act and Disaster Recovery Regulation along with a structured change management plan to support stakeholder adaptation and improve efficiency, training and communication. The DFAA took effect on April 1, 2025. The Disaster Assistance Directives are planned to be in place before any programs are approved through a Ministerial Order for the 2025 disaster season. This will ensure policy stability and greater sustainability to support stronger disaster recovery for Albertans and their communities.

Provincial Emergency Coordination Centre (PECC) Augmentee Program

In 2024-25, the ministry continued to manage the PECC Augmentee Program, which trains Government of Alberta employees from various departments to support emergency response operations in key PECC roles. The program enables a scalable, coordinated response to large-scale emergencies by temporarily increasing staffing capacity within the PECC. During the fiscal year, 81 augmentees were trained and actively contributed to strengthening Alberta’s overall disaster management readiness. In January 2025, a virtual information session introduced 96 Government of Alberta staff to the PECC and the Augmentee Program.

Performance Measure 3.a:
Percentage of local authorities visited by an AEMA field officer and had their Community Emergency Management Plan reviewed annually

Prior Years' Results				2024-25 Target	2024-25 Actual
2020-21	2021-22	2022-23	2023-24
83%	85%	90%	93%	90%	95%

This performance measure reflects the level of preparedness and resilience across the province. By reviewing emergency plans, field officers can identify weaknesses or gaps in preparedness, allowing local authorities to address them proactively. These reviews ensures that local authorities align with established standard and best practices, fostering a cohesive and unified approach to disaster management. Keeping plans updated strengthens community resilience and enhance overall disaster readiness.

In 2024-25, AEMA field officers visited 95 per cent of communities in Alberta and reviewed their emergency management plans, exceeding the target by five per cent, with 316 reviews out of 333 local authorities. The five per cent increase in emergency plan reviews can be attributed to a combination of stronger community engagement, increased capacity, and targeted outreach. Several communities demonstrated greater readiness and responsiveness, which helped facilitate more reviews. In addition, newly hired field officers were fully trained and integrated into their regions this year, allowing for expanded coverage and a focused effort to connect with communities that had not been reached in previous years.

Although First Nations communities do not fall under the jurisdiction of the Emergency Management Act, First Nations field officers regularly visit communities and offer various in-person services, including reviews of community emergency management plans. In 2024-25, the number of completed plan reviews and visits for First Nations communities was 13 out of 46. This two per cent increase can be attributed to stronger engagement from First Nations communities, with more scheduling reviews and showing increased readiness to update their emergency management plans.

Performance Measure 3.b:
Percentage of Albertans who have taken at least three preparedness actions in the past year (annual survey)

Prior Years' Results				2024-25 Target	2024-25 Actual
2020-21	2021-22	2022-23	2023-24
Not Available	55%	47%	51%	53%	50%

Preparedness is one of the four phases of emergency management, and individual preparedness plays a critical role in community resilience. This performance measure evaluates the effectiveness of the AEMA's Be Prepared public education initiatives by tracking the percentage of Albertans who report completing at least three preparedness activities, such as: making an emergency kit, creating an evacuation plan, or taking other similar steps. Although the survey has been conducted annually since 2021, it was formally introduced as a key performance measure in the PSES 2024-25 Business Plan.

The target for 2024-25 was set at 53 per cent, informed by previous trends and the anticipated effects of public awareness efforts. The actual result for the year was 50 per cent, a three-percentage-point variance below the target and one point below the previous year's result of 51 per cent. This result remains within the ± 2.5 per cent margin of error typical for this type of survey, indicating a stable trend.

Preparedness levels have fluctuated in recent years, with a significant drop from 55 per cent in 2021-22 to 47 per cent in 2022-23, likely due to shifting public priorities following the COVID-19 pandemic. A rebound was seen in 2023-24, with a 51 per cent result, and a minor decrease to 50 per cent in 2024-25 suggests that awareness efforts are regaining ground. External factors such as economic pressures may continue to affect the public's ability to invest in emergency preparedness.

Internally, AEMA's preparedness initiatives, including public education, increased outreach and improved access to preparedness resources, are expected to show greater impact over time. While current results reflect a modest decline, the findings highlight the importance of continued investment in preparedness education and the need to tailor communication strategies to reach diverse communities across Alberta. Ongoing evaluation will ensure that public education remains effective, relevant and adaptable to changing circumstances.

Performance Measure and Indicator Methodology

Performance Measure 1.a:

Median time from intake to resolution of Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods (SCAN) complaints

Source: Public Safety and Emergency Services Administrative Data, Public Security Division.

Methodology: the measure monitors the timeliness and overall efficiency of the Alberta Sheriffs' Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods (SCAN) unit in keeping Albertan communities safe by dealing with problem properties used for illegal activities such as drug trafficking, prostitution, child exploitation and gang-related crime.

The measure is calculated by comparing the date a complaint is received to the date a resolution is made, which results in the 'time to resolution', and then the median of all the times to resolution indicates the performance, as shown in the equation below:

$$\text{Median time from intake to resolution} = \text{Median (Number of days from intake to resolution for each SCAN complaint in the fiscal year)}$$

The overall objective of the measure is to contribute to community safety and minimize negative impacts of problem properties with quicker file resolutions. The impacts to a family living near a drug house are significant and saving a family from enduring this type of activity for even one less day is a huge contribution to public safety.

The expansion of SCAN by 20 investigators directly impacts the files that were previously unassigned, which in turn directly reduced the amount of time it takes to resolve a complaint. In addition, the time it takes to resolve a complaint can vary depending on how complex the case is, changes in its status, the timing of external hearings, and the specific steps needed to complete the investigation. To improve outcomes, the ministry is enhancing SCAN operations by adding staff and strengthening partnerships with RCMP and municipal police services.

Performance Indicator 1.a:

Violent and property crime rates per 100,000 population

Source: Uniform Crime Reporting Survey, Canadian Centre for Justice and Community Safety Statistics (CCJCSS). Data is available annually. CCJCSS Table data was available in July 2024.

Methodology: crime rate is calculated using incident-based Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR2) data, which measures police-reported crime in each Canadian jurisdiction. Crime rate measures the volume of police-reported crime, expressed as the number of crimes per 100,000 people. Historical results are revised annually to reflect updated data provided by police services for incidents that occurred in previous years. Property crime includes theft, break and enter, fraud and possession of stolen goods. It does not include the use of threat of violence against an individual. Violent crime includes homicide, attempted murder, robbery, abduction and various forms of sexual assault. It does not include traffic incidents that result in death or bodily harm.

Performance Indicator 1.b:
Violent and non-violent Crime Severity Index

Source: Uniform Crime Reporting Survey, Canadian Centre for Justice and Community Safety Statistics (CCJCSS). Data is available annually. CCJCSS Table data was available on July 27, 2023.

Methodology: the crime severity index is a measure of the seriousness of police reported crime. Each criminal offence is weighted based on the sentence imposed upon the offender. More serious offences, such as homicide or serious assault, are weighted more heavily than minor thefts and minor assaults. The crime severity index is calculated using incident-based Uniform Crime Reporting Survey (UCR2) data. It should be noted that incident-based UCR2 data was not available for all respondents for the period from 1998 to 2015. Instead, these police services continued to report to the Aggregate Uniform Crime Reporting Survey (UCR), which meant that a process of imputation was necessary to translate UCR data into its UCR2 equivalents. Approximately 80 per cent of the offence codes in the aggregate survey mapped 1:1 onto the incident-based violation codes in the UCR2. For the remaining categories of violation (such as the “aggregate other Criminal Code” category), it was necessary to estimate their seriousness by looking at the distribution of other Criminal Code offences in the reports of existing UCR2 respondents.

Performance Measure 2.a:
Average days to decision for applications to the Victims of Crime Assistance Program

Source: Public Safety and Emergency Services Administrative Data, Strategy, Support and Integrated Initiatives Division.

Methodology: the measure reflects the effectiveness of the redesigned victims services delivery program in providing timely support to victims of crime. The measure is calculated by comparing the date the application is received to the date a decision is made, which results in the ‘time to decision’, and then the average of all the times to decision indicates the performance, as shown in the equation below:

$$\text{Average days to decision} = \left(\frac{\text{Cumulative number of days to decision for all VAP applications in the fiscal year}}{\text{Total number of VAP applications processed in the fiscal year}} \right)$$

Performance includes consideration of all decisions made and length of time from receipt of application to date of decision. A five per cent margin of error is considered as the new Victims of Crime Assistance Program was implemented as of September 1, 2022. By providing access to emergency supports and services as soon as possible after victimization, the program aims to ensure victims are supported while navigating the criminal justice system and long-term impacts of victimization can be mitigated. The results of the evaluation will be used to inform future enhancements and determine the need for additional program services or supports.

Performance Measure 2.b:Average daily occupancy rate in Therapeutic Living Units in Provincial Correctional Centres

Source: Public Safety and Emergency Services Administrative Data, Correctional Services Division

Methodology: this measure demonstrates inmate participation in the recovery-oriented systems of care addiction treatment programming while in custody. It reports the average daily utilization rate of available TLU beds across correctional centres in the province. TLUs provide inmates an opportunity to begin holistic addiction treatment, accessing supports while serving custodial time. At the same time, TLUs allow them an opportunity to be released into a recovery community to access supports as they continue their treatment journey, if they choose to do so.

Each provincial TLU calculates its daily occupancy rate by dividing the number of TLU participants by the number of available bedspaces obtained from the TLU Bed Count Report generated from the Offender Records and Correctional Administration (ORCA) system. The daily occupancy rate is calculated by dividing the total daily count of occupied beds by the total daily count of available beds in all provincial TLUs, multiplied by 100 percent, as shown in the formula below:

A range of ± 5 per cent in the result is considered acceptable and acknowledges the voluntary nature of the program, as TLUs are optional and only available to select inmates meeting specific eligibility criteria. The target TLU participant group consists of sentenced individuals with aggregate sentences of 90 days or longer, and those who are remanded with a minimum of 90 days remaining before a major court appearance, with a high need for substance abuse treatment. Strict guidelines for reporting adjustments to bed space when changes occur have been introduced to ensure both the "Total Count of Beds in Use" and "Available Beds" data points are accurately updated when there is a temporary increase in the number of individuals enrolled in the TLU program.

Public Safety and Emergency Services is working with the Ministry of Mental health and Addiction to explore options for enhancement of TLU programming, including an evaluation of the program with a focus on staffing, training, project roll out and client engagement.

Performance Measure 3.a:Percentage of local authorities visited by an Alberta Emergency Management Agency field officer and had their Community Emergency Management Plan reviewed annually

Source: data and information regarding field visits and reviews of community emergency management plans, including those completed both in-person and remotely, is recorded in ArcGIS, a geographic information system application.

Methodology: field officers will typically conduct community emergency management plan reviews in person with a representative from the local authority, preferably the director of emergency management. The field officer may review the plan within the Community Emergency Management Program database or can request an electronic copy in advance to prepare for the in-person review. Regardless of the method, the field officer will record their observations and recommendations within Community Emergency Management Program for future and ongoing tracking.

The following equation is used to process the data collected in the Community Emergency Management Program:

$$\% = \left(\frac{\text{Number of local authorities visited by AEMA field officers and had their Community Emergency Management Plan reviewed in a fiscal year}}{\text{Total number of local authorities in Alberta}} \right) \times 100$$

This performance measure is calculated by comparing the number of local authorities who were visited by an AEMA field officer and had their community emergency management plan reviewed in a fiscal year to the total number of local authorities in Alberta. The resulting ratio is expressed as a percentage. A confidence interval is not applicable since a representative sample is not used for statistical inference. The data analysis for this performance measure only includes the local authorities that have been visited by a field officer and who have had their community emergency management plan reviewed either remotely or in-person. Both activities must have occurred for the data to be included.

For local authorities who have adopted a regional approach for developing emergency management plans, field officers review the regional plan and meet with the appropriate municipal representative for the region. Review of an emergency management plan for a region, and subsequent field visits, count as a review and visit for all constituent local authorities. Each constituent community of a regional community emergency management plan is counted separately for this performance measure rather than just counting one review and field visit.

Performance Measure 3.b:

Percentage of Albertans who have taken at least three preparedness actions in the past year (annual survey)

Source: Personal Preparedness and Resilience Survey 2024: Final Report. Advanis Incorporated.

The annual preparedness survey targets Albertans aged 18 and older and is designed to achieve demographic representation across age groups, genders, regions, and ethnic backgrounds. Respondents are recruited through a vendor-managed General Population Random Sample (GPRS) panel consisting of over 100,000 Alberta residents from diverse backgrounds. Participants are contacted at random and invited to complete the survey via a secure link. In 2024, the survey collected responses from 1,535 Albertans, exceeding the minimum annual target of 1,500 participants.

To ensure high-quality, representative data, the GPRS panel is regularly refreshed to reduce survey fatigue and improve response accuracy. Following data collection, responses are processed and analyzed using Statistical Package for the Social Sciences software and Advanis' proprietary Online Reporting Environment. Results are weighted to align with Alberta's population distribution based on Statistics Canada's 2016 census data, adjusting for variations in gender, ethnicity, and age.

Survey findings are considered accurate within a margin of error of ± 2.5 percentage points, 19 times out of 20, at a 95 per cent confidence level. Independent statistical tests are used to identify meaningful differences among demographic groups, and only results meeting the 95 per cent significance threshold are reported.

Insights from the survey inform the Ministry's public education initiatives, outreach strategies, preparedness planning, and resource offerings, ensuring they remain targeted and effective in encouraging proactive emergency preparedness. By continuously adapting to the evolving needs and preparedness levels of Albertans, these efforts help strengthen resilience and readiness across the province.

Reporting Entity and Method Consolidation

The financial information is prepared in accordance with government's stated accounting policies, which are based on Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards.

The reporting entity is the ministry for which the Minister of Public Safety and Emergency Services is accountable. The accounts of the Ministry, which includes the department of Public Safety and Emergency Services and the Victims of Crime and Public Safety Fund, are fully consolidated using the line-by-line method, with the accounting policies described below.

Under this method, accounting policies of the consolidated entities are adjusted to conform to government accounting policies and the results of each line item in their financial statements (revenue, expense, assets, and liabilities) are included in government's results. Revenue and expense, capital, investing and financing transactions and related asset and liability balances between the consolidated entities have been eliminated.

A list of the individual entities making up the ministry are shown on the "Management's Responsibility for Reporting" statement included in this annual report.

Ministry revenues in 2024-25 are $416.5 million, which is $192.5 million or 86% per cent higher than budgeted. The increased revenues are mainly the result of:

- $140 million higher than budget in transfer from Government of Canada (GOC) due to an increase in Disaster Financial Assistance Arrangements (DFAA) for Jasper Wildfire and other Alberta wildfires.
- $48.5 million higher than budget in other revenue, primarily due to the return of prior year grant payments.
- $7.6 million higher than budget in Other Premiums, fees and licenses revenue due to an increase in 911 levy.
- Offset by $4.7 million decrease in Fines and Penalties from traffic tickets.

Actual to Actual

Actual revenues in 2024-25 reflect an increase of $125 million or 42.9 per cent:

- $133.2 million increase in Federal Government Grants primarily due to higher revenues from Disaster Recovery Programs related to the Alberta wildfires, including costs associated with the Jasper Wildfire.

Actual to Actual

Actual operating expenses were $50.6 million or 3.4 per cent lower than 2023-24. The decrease in expenses is mainly the result of:

- $131 million decrease in AEMA due to a decrease in Disaster Recovery Program funding including 2023 Spring wildfires, NWT Evacuation, and North Central Flood.
- Offset by:
 - $47.2 million increase in Public Security, primarily due to Provincial Policing Agreement with RCMP and recruitment costs for sheriffs related to policing services.
 - $26.5 million increase in Correctional Services due to recruitment costs on Custody Operations and Community Corrections.

Disaster Recovery Program (unaudited)

Department of Public Safety and Emergency Services

For the year ended March 31, 2025

(in thousands)

The Disaster Recovery Program (DRP) is administered by the Alberta Emergency Management Agency (AEMA). AEMA is part of the Alberta Public Safety and Emergency Services. Alberta Regulation 51/94 of the Alberta Emergency Management Act allows the province to provide disaster recovery assistance to residents, small business, agriculture operations, and provincial and municipal governments if the event meets the criteria as outlined in the regulation.

The Ministry recognizes the DRP expense when the Government of Alberta (GoA) issues a Ministerial Order.

The Ministry recognizes Disaster Financial Assistance Arrangements (DFAA) revenue when the Government of Canada (GoC) issues an Order in Council (OiC) declaring the Alberta disaster to be of a concern to the GoC. The estimated DFAA revenue is determined by assessing eligible DRP expenses under the DFAA guidelines. As a result, some DRP expenses are excluded when calculating the estimated DFAA revenue.

The Ministry will continue to pursue revenue from the GoC for expenses that are excluded from the estimated DFAA calculation.

The following schedule lists disasters being administered by AEMA at March 31, 2025:

Disaster	GoC OiC	Total Projected DRP Expense (1)	Payments to Date	Accrued Liabilities	Total Projected DFAA Revenue (1) (2)	Advances/ Payments Received (3)	Accounts Receivable

(1) DRP expense and DFAA revenue are calculated based on management estimates. The projected DRP expenses and DFAA revenue are adjusted to reflect management's best estimate of the remaining obligations of the DRP and expected DFAA revenue.

(2) A province or territory may request GoC disaster financial assistance when eligible expenditures exceed an established initial threshold based on the provincial or territorial population.

(3) The GoC may provide advance payments to provincial and territorial governments as funds are expended under the provincial/territorial DRP.

(4) "Other DRPs" includes DRPs with accrual balances or transactions during the 2024/25 fiscal year that are DFAA ineligible.

- (1) As per "Expense Vote by Program", "Capital Investment Vote by Program" and "Financial Transactions Vote by Program", page 177-185 of 2024-25 Government Estimates on February 29, 2024.
- (2) Per the Supplementary Supply Estimates approved on March 20, 2025.
- (3) Adjustments include encumbrances, capital carry forward amounts, transfers between votes, credit or recovery increases approved by Treasury Board, and credit or recovery shortfalls. An encumbrance is incurred when, on a vote-by-vote basis, the total of actual disbursements in the prior year exceed the total adjusted estimate. All calculated encumbrances from the prior year are reflected as an adjustment to reduce the corresponding voted estimate in the current year. Adjustments also include supply vote transfers for "Contingency" as approved by the Lieutenant Governor in Council under the direction of the Minister of Finance. The Contingency supply vote consists of a provisional funding authority transferable to any ministry. Upon approval by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, the President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance may either spend or transfer all or a portion of this supply vote to another Minister for public emergencies, disasters or unanticipated costs.
- (4) Actuals exclude non-voted amounts as no cash disbursement is required (non-cash amounts), or because the Legislative Assembly has already provided the funding authority pursuant to a statute other than an appropriation act. Non-cash amounts (such as amortization, accretion, valuation adjustments, and other provisions) are excluded as these amounts do not require any expenditure or payment of public money. Year-end expense accruals & payables which will immediately require a cash outlay (payment of public money) to settle or otherwise extinguish the liabilities are included in Actuals.

Ministry Response to Recommendations from the Office of the Child and Youth Advocate

In response to a recommendation from the Office of the Child and Youth Advocate (OCYA), the Correctional Services Division (CSD) has committed to public annual reporting of emergency incidents that required the use of Oleoresin Capsicum spray (OC spray) and incidents where administrative placement was required within a provincial young offender centre.

For the period of April 1, 2024 through March 31, 2025, CSD reports the following:

I. Total Number of Incidents of OC Spray Deployment in Provincial Young Offender Centres

The use of OC spray is based on a variety of exceptional circumstances that are unique to each situation. It is only used when all lesser use of force options are exhausted, and to reduce the likelihood of injury or harm for young person(s) and staff involved. Data is collapsed to the provincial level, in order to protect the privacy of youths involved in the OC spray incidents. Also, to protect the privacy of the youth involved, the number of OC spray incidents in young offender centres is not reported when fewer than six instances have occurred. For the 2024-25 fiscal year, 25 incidents of OC spray occurred within provincial young offender centres.

II. Secure Separation in Provincial Young Offender Centres

In 2024-25, CSD focused on refining the methodology used to assess and monitor the use of secure separation of young persons in correctional facilities. This work is essential to ensure that future reporting is accurate, consistent, and meaningful. Prior work has focused on implementing changes to policies and practices related to the segregation of youth in correctional facilities. These updates introduced standards for secure separation that align with trauma-informed practices. Key changes included clearer parameters for confinement conditions, revised review protocols, and a new case conference mechanism to guide responses to behavioral incidents.
